Recurrent Neural Network

Input Layer    Hidden Layers    Output Layer

dataaspirant.com

Introduction to RNNs

Recurrent Neural Networks (RNNs) are a powerful class of artificial neural networks designed to process sequential data. Unlike traditional feedforward neural networks, RNNs possess an internal feedback loop that allows them to maintain and update their internal state, enabling them to capture dependencies and patterns within sequential inputs.